Prentice reminds us that General Scott not only said he accepted the nomination with the platform, but he also said, "the political principles and measures laid down in those resolutions are so broad that but little is left for me to add." He did not say, however, that there was nothing for him to subtract. What he has not said is far more important than what he has said. Why did he not say he approved the principles of the platform in plain terms? His friends say he was an earnest advocate of the compromise before it passed. Why did not Gen. Scott support their declarations by his own testimony? The truth is, Scott accepts the nomination with its encumbrances; that's all. If he had been offered the platform without the nomination, he might have done what his original supporters do-defied, scorned, and spit upon it.

LOUISVILLE, KY., Exclusive Agent in this city for the Sale of Fisk's Patent Air-Tight Metallic Burial Cases. THE SUBSCRIBER, ILAVING PURCHASED THE Louisvide Agency for the above Burial Cases, would call the attention of the public to their great superiority in every respect to the common wooden coffin now in uso. For durability, elegance, atyle of finish, and indeed every other requisite, either of besurty or of usefulness, they are unrivaled, and wherever they have been introduced they have rapilly attained decided preference, to the almost total exclusion of every other Coffin. Their neat and classic form, their great convenience, and their many other sterling qualities, render them universally desirable; while their cost, being but little if any above that of the ordinary wooden ties, render them universally desirable; while their cost, being but little if any above that of the ordinary wooden Coffin, places them within the reach of all. Satisfied of their peculiar merita, the subscriber is confident of their necessed and extended rale. The subscriber hopes by strict personal attention and complete knowledge of the business to merit and receive a liberal share of the public patronsge. He has now and will continue to keep on band a full supply of furial Cases, with an elegant Hearse constantly in attendance; and he has also made arrangements to supply Carriages when de sired. without paying nuchatention to localities, he was suddenly assated from behind by some inknown person dexterously knocking bis hat off, slipping a hag over his head, selzing upon his arms, and running him through an alley and into a room some hundred or hundreds of feet in the rear. Here he was put on a seat, and his person searched with great deliberation.

The operator was cool and collected in proportion to the helpitessness and perplexity of bis victim. He looked through the several law and other papers which he found, and not regarding them of any value, returned them. A gold pencil and pen were thus learned also, and a roll of $160 in bills was all that seemed to repay the perquisition, and was retained by the robber. That person proposed, lu the business-like manner that char acterized his whole demeanor, to kill his victim; the latter interposling, with much less coolness, some obvivious objections, and making some promises which this part of the interview the bag was removed and New York, July 12—M.
